

100 Best Minnesota High School Games

What makes a great game? It doesn't get any bigger than an OT game in the state tournament, but there's lots of variations. Lots of scoring, relative to the time and place helps. Great individual performances. Something new and different, like the earliest jump shots and the first great low post performances and an early fast break and the first three-point shots. Stuff like that. Great individual, head-to-head matchups like Lingenfelter and McHale. Wow, I wish Khalid El-Amin and Tyus Jones could have gone at it. Great dynasties, like a heavyweight championship of the world. All of that and more, it all makes for a great game of basketball.

Team and Year	Description	Top Player(s)
